Hello!

I'm a Massachusetts-born, New Hampshire-educated, wannabe Bostonian creative type of many talents and I've got the passion, ambition, and sheer awesomeness to handle any job the world throws my way. I'm looking for full-time employment in either southern New Hampshire or the Boston area in graphic design, web design, or a customer service capacity -or maybe even all three rolled into one, I'm just that good.

Education

Chester College of New England / 2005-2009 BA in Graphic Design

In addition to the ins and outs of graphic design, I also learned a thing or two about illustration, photography, bookmaking, painting, sculpture, and various bits of history and social science.

Experience

Home Depot / Hooksett, NH / 2008 - Present Customer Service Associate

When something goes wrong at the Depot, it's my job to fix it. I spend the day fielding any and all customer questions, complaints, and confusions. From basic returns, to special orders, to mildly unsettling phone calls, I do it all, and I do it with a smile.

Self-Employed / Marginalia Studios / 2009 - Present Web Designer

For the past two years I have been self-employed as a website designer and front-end developer. In the last few months, I joined forces with six college friends to found Marginalia Studios, an art collective of designers, illustrators, writers, and fine artists out to take the world by storm and provide sweet art to the masses.
